

Arizona Behavioral Health Corporation
presents the
2019 Eric Gilbertson Advocacy Institute for Behavioral Health APPLICATION

The Eric Gilbertson Advocacy Institute for Behavioral Health (aka Institute) is designed for service recipients, family members, board members of behavioral health agencies, and individuals concerned about quality behavioral health services in Arizona. The goal of the training is to provide a comprehensive overview of the Arizona behavioral health system and to assist you in becoming an effective advocate for those receiving behavioral health services.

The Institute provides information, training, and resources to participants on behavioral health issues as the system continues to move towards integration of physical and behavioral health. We want to empower you at the individual, provider, and system level to be a voice about what works and what needs improvement. The Institute will provide participants with opportunities to meet and talk with leaders and advocates in the Arizona behavioral health system. Additionally, you will have an opportunity to meet and unite with others who have a similar interest in creating a powerful voice on important issues. You will learn how various state agencies are responsible for the delivery of integrated behavioral health services and how the public policy process works at the state and national levels to impact behavioral health policy.
